Specialist concepts to keep you safe

Having served the chemical and petrochemical industries for so many years now, BUCHEN has in-depth knowledge of safety technology and knows all about the special requirements of this field. We have pooled together our years of experience and our specialist areas of expertise to create our SafetyService division, enabling us to offer an exceptionally wide range of services to our industrial customers as well as to firefighters and the emergency services – from providing advice on safety technology, to servicing, hiring out and selling such equipment, all the way through to training people how to use it. BUCHEN truly is a pioneer when it comes to drawing up bespoke concepts for managing safety technology.

We also develop interesting concepts for firefighters and the emergency services that are not only cost effective but also provide the highest levels of safety and material availability.

Future-oriented concepts covering all aspects of safety logistics and management

No two solutions are ever the same but each and every one begins with us giving our customers comprehensive advice. With no ties to any particular manufacturer, we are able to give you independent and transparent advice and show you a variety of possible solutions.

On request, we can take over all aspects of managing your safety equipment, including keeping an eye on testing intervals, servicing the devices and documenting when the equipment is handed out and returned.

Our solutions are as wide-ranging as your requirements. Why not contact us to talk about what you need? We're happy to help!

> Adding value with BUCHEN SafetyService

Make the most of our experience

Giving you detailed advice on how to manage your safety equipment is not simply something we feel we need to do but something we feel obliged to do. We work in partnership with our customers, showing them the range of options available to them and then working with them to ensure these detailed concepts are implemented in the most effective way.

Customer-oriented & cost effective

Our work is guided solely by your safety requirements – and we only ever go as far as you yourself believe is necessary. Our concepts deliver effective and economical modular solutions that cover all aspects of managing your safety equipment and can be extended as and when needed or be adjusted to meet changing conditions. Our years of successful work in this field reflect both our depth of experience and act as our reference. It goes without saying that we run a discreet and independent business.

We are dedicated to your safety and make the very most of our experience to keep you safe. Each and every day

We have in-depth knowledge of the wide range of safety equipment on the market and provide transparent and independent advice

Operatives can practise wearing respiratory protective equipment at BUCHEN's own training centre

> TRAINING

Knowledge means safety

The training courses we offer provide both theory and practice – with a clear emphasis on practical use. The participants leave with detailed knowledge of safety materials and how they should be used. Priority here is put on showing how to use the products correctly and effectively in line with the manufacturer's instructions and legal regulations.

Our range of training courses is an important element of our all-round SafetyService concept

Using life-saving technology correctly

We have gathered a wealth of practical experience at our accredited service centres which our employees then pass on to others in professional courses. Experienced trainers are available for teaching about specialist subjects. These courses are held in our service centres, at your company or at BUCHEN's own training centre where, for example, participants are able to practise using respiratory protective equipment under realistic conditions. All in all, our courses are very much focused on the everyday use of safety equipment.

Experienced trainers pass on their extensive theoretical and practical knowledge of the – in some cases highly sensitive – safety technology

Keeping an eye on the budget

No matter whether it involves gas detection technology, breathing apparatus, full body protection, fall arresters or safety equipment for specific situations – you can rent all the safety equipment you need from our extensive pool. For us, however, hiring out equipment is not simply a matter of supplying the materials. We are also able to set up complex material management systems on site at our customers by intelligently combining manpower and automated dispensers.

Put your equipment in our capable hands and the material will always be available for you whenever you need it

Equipment on hand 24/7

Our customers have access to high safety standards when they rent from us. Our rental system is the result of 20 years' experience and development work and is absolutely transparent and easy to understand – both time wise and from point of view of the users and costs. All safety materials are deployed cost effectively and you are always able to keep an eye on your budget.

We can offer a variety of logistics solutions to further increase safety at your company, such as:

Safety Shops

The service technicians working in the BUCHEN Safety Shops hand out the safety equipment that is needed. The shops are staffed according to your requirements and are designed to meet the needs of your day-to-day business or special projects.

Safety dispensers

Our dispenser system makes it possible for safety material to be handed out 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and 365 days a year without a member of staff having to be present. It can be integrated into existing access systems or can be operated as a stand-alone safety system. Our dispenser system can be used for a range of other tasks as well as for handing out and returning safety equipment. You can, for example, place orders, arrange for products to be purchased (with payment by card) or use it to dispense consumables. No matter how you choose to deploy the system, it's your decision who gets authorisation by coordinating everything from the comfort of your own office.

Thanks to our dispenser systems, materials can be accessed whenever they are needed. They can also be returned via the same system – quickly and easily

Only safety equipment that has been professionally serviced is fit for purpose

> SERVICING

Always ready for use

The safety equipment is serviced by experienced technicians in our own service centres. It goes without saying here that we always conform to all legislation requirements and the instructions issued by the manufacturers.

When we offer our maintenance package, we guarantee that we will always adhere to the legally prescribed testing intervals

Responsible for your safety

Servicing safety equipment is a complex procedure – from recording the details, to the cleaning, disinfection, repair and testing of the materials, all the way through to the packaging. All maintenance schedules and information are stored and documented in our rental system for all the different materials and can be accessed by our service technicians from any of our service centres. You can, therefore, rest assured that your employees always have access to equipment that works perfectly.

Our service technicians always work with great care and attention to detail

We also service highly sensitive respiratory equipment

Quality that speaks for itself

Thanks to its long-standing collaboration work, the pooling together of its expertise and the contracts it has negotiated with manufacturers, BUCHEN SafetyService is in a position to provide you with the latest technology at competitive prices.
